WORK OF CONGRESS.

NESS" CONGRESS SURE ENOUGH.

Pone by the Busiest Congress Since the War-Two Great Measures Out of Three Passed-The Appropriations

From first to last the sessions of the Fifty-first Congress were interesting and eventral, and for no long period were they ever characterized by the dullness which occasionally for days at a time marks the proceedings of nearly every Congress, and especially of those Congresses in which the first session is usually prolonged. The actual working time of the Fifty-first Congress exceeded that of any of its predecessors, and the nominal working time of all, except the Fiftieth Congress, and in the number of measures brought to its attention and the number, variety and importance of those acted on it likewise surpassed all previous Congresse. This "working" or "business" feature was perhaps the most distinguished characteristic of the Fifty-first Congress. It seems the more remarkable when the magnitude, character and long rendency of many of the topics considered are taken into account. Three measures, any one of which in intrinsic importance and popular interest would be sufficient for a national issue, stand forth pre-eminent among all others:

First, the McKinley Tariff bill, which became a law; second, the Silver bill, on which in the first session a compromise was effected, based on monthly purchases of 4,500,000 ounces of silver, which, in turn, was followed by a more radical measure that failed of passage, and, third, the Federal Elections bill, which, after a protracted, bitter, hotly-fought and increasely exciting preliminary struggle, failed in the Senate to reach a decisive vote on its merits.

Radical innovations in the rules of the House added interest to its proceeding, and determined but fruitless efforts to adopt the most vital of these innovations formed a part of the history of the latter part of the sessions of the Senate. Even in its mortuary record the Congress was remarkable, the call of death having summoned no fewer than twelve of its Representatives and three of its Senators. The list contains the names of Senators Beck of Kentucky, Wilson of Maryland and Hearst of California, and Representatives W. D. Kelley, Samuel J. Randall and Lewis F. Watson of Pennsylvania: S. Cox, David Wilson and Newton J. Nutting of New York, Richard Townshend of Illinois, J. M. Burnes and James P. Walker of Missouri, James Laird of Nebraska, Edward J. Gay of Lousiana and James Phelan of Tennessee.

Many of the bills enacted i

Bills passed—By the House, 1,748, of which 1,548 became laws, and by the Senate, 1,365 bills, of which 073 became laws, making the total number of laws during the Fifty-first Congress 2,183, as against 1,824 in the Fiftieth Congress—an increase of 302.

1,824 in the Fiftieth Congress—an increase of 302.

The Senate also postponed indefinitely 616 Senate and 18 House bills, this being equivalent to a defeat. During the Fiftieth Congress 161 bills were vetoed and during the Fifty-first Congress 11.

In addition to this work there were eighteen contested-election cases. The House seated eight of the Republican contestants, and declared the seat of one Democrat—Mr. Breckinridge of Arkansas—vacant. Two cases—Goodrich vs. Bullock, from Florida, and McGiunis vs. Alderson, from West Virginia—in which the committee recommended seating of the Republican contestants, were not disposed of by the House; and the Elections Committee itself never acted on the Eaton vs. Phelan, Tennessee, case. The Senate disposed of its sole contested-election case by seating the two Republican Senators from Mcontana.

seating the two Republican Senators from Montana.

As a result of the work of the Congress a great number of measures which have for years occupied more or less of the attention of the legislative branch of the Government will be transferred to the Executive and Judicial Departments of the Government, there, perhaps, to become equally familiar acquaintances. Indeed, hardly a single measure of other than transient interest has failed to receive decisive action in one or the other branch of Congress. Contrary to previous experience, the more important of the measures which constitute the list of legislative failures found their tomb in the Senate, the House having throughout the two years taken the lead in legislation and passed definitely upon every measure of the majority desired action.

Among the 'old stagers' which are now laws are the Copyright bill, the Private Land Court bill (to settle disputes arising over Mexican grants in the Western States and Territories), the Postal Subsidy bill, the Indian Depredation Claims bill, the Timber and Pre-emption Law Repeal bill (making a general revision of the land laws), the Customs Administrative bill, a General Land Forfeiture bill, the bill to relieve the Supreme Court by the astablishment of intermediate circuit courts of sporcel, the United States Judges' Salaries bill, the Direct Tax Refund bill and an appropriation to pay the awards of the Court of Claims in the French Spoliation Claims.

The Blair Educational bill, the bill for Court of Claims in the French Spoliation Claims.

The Blair Educational bill, the bill for the appointment of an alcoholic liquor ecommission and the "Eight-Hour" Claims bill are measures which were defeated on test votes; while among those which, after passing one House failed of action in the other, and will be doubtless wrestled with by succeeding Congresses, are the Bankruptey bill, the Conger Lard bill and the Army Reorganization bill.

The Paddock Pure Food bill, the Nicaragua Canal bill, the Pacitic Raitroad Refunding bill and the Interstate Commerce bill (to permit limited pooling of earnings by railroad companies) are among the measures which failed to reach a vote in either House.

Fourteen bills were vetoed as follows:

measures which failed to reach a vote in either House.
Fourteen bills were vetoed as follows: The act for a public building at Bar Harbor, the act authorizing Oklahoma City to issue railroad bonds, the act to establish the record and pension office of the War Department, the act for the relief of the heirs of George W. Lawrence, authorizing the city of Ogden, Utah, to assume an increased indibtedness, for public building at Dallas, Texas; Hudson, Ky., and Tuscalocsa, Ala., authorizing the Board of Supervisors of Marieopa County, Ihalio, to issue bonds in aid of a certain railroad; changing the boundaries of the Uncompange Indian reservation, extending the time for the payments of lands purchased from the Omaha tribe of Indians, for retirement of Captain C. B. Stivers, to prohibit pool selling in the District of Columbia and for the payment of the Choteau claims.

The New Navy Register.
In the Navy Register for January 1 1891, just issued by the Navy Department there is little difference from the previous there is little difference from the previous year's copy, except in the promotions due to casualties. Following are the chief changes on the active list: Rear Admiral J. A. Jouette has gone on the retired list, his place on the Rear Admirals' list being filled by Commodore A. E. K. Benham, while the latter's place on the Commodore's list has been taken by Captain Joseph Fyffe.

From the captains' list have disappeared Hobert Boyd and George B. White, both deceased. Captains Frederick Rodgers, J. F. McGlensey and E. C. Merriman fill the vacancies. Of last year's eighty-five commanders two—W. S. Dana and C. L. Huntington—died. The promotions to this grade are J. E. Craig, C. M. Thomas, A. S. Snow, G. C. Reiter and R. D. Hitchceek. Two commanders are under suspension—H. L. Johnson and B. H. McCalla. The former has lost four numbers and McCalla has lost two numbers during the year—that is, they have been passed over by that many officers formerly their juniors on the list.

Among the Lieutenant Commanders Holman Vail has been retired and George B. Lavingston has died. The promotions to this grade are H. B. Mansfield, R. E. Carmody, E. D. F. Heald, F. M. Symonds, E. P. Wood, Walton Goodwin and Albert Ross.

The casualties among the Lieutenanishave been deaths, two—H. T. Monahan M. F. Wright; and resigned, one—M. A. Shufeldt.

THE NEW DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Mr. Cole Enters Upon the Discharge of His New Duties.

Mr. Charles C. Cole, the new United States District Attorney, was sworn into office at noon to-day in the clerk's office States District Attorney, was sworn into office at noon to-day in the clerk's office at the City Hall Building by Major Williams, the assistant clerk of courts. Mr. Cole at once proceeded to the District Attorney's office, where, after receiving the congratulations of many friends, he entered upon the duties of his office. Judge Hoge remained for some time in the office with his successor, and said good-by to his assistants and the officials of the different courts.

It is generally expected that some changes will be made in the District Attorney's office by Mr. Cole, but he has requested his assistants to remain for the present.

The new District Attorney promuses a thorough administration of his office, and will have a number of important criminal cases to take charge of, including the Kincaid murder trial. This trial will not be delayed by reason of the change in the District Attorney's office, as the Government is now fully prepared with its case, but it is expected, however, that a motion for postponement will be made by Kincaid's coutsel.

Mr. Cole received his commission from Attorney General Miller yesterday morning, and at that time withdrew from the Strong will case in the Circuit Court in which he has been engaged as counsel for the past few weeks.

Mr. Cole was presented to the Justices in the Court in General Term by Judge Hoge, after which they proceeded together to the Criminal Court.

Here Mr. Cole was formally introdused to Justice Hagner. Judge Hoge in a few words expressed his gratification at the courteous treatment which he had always received from the Court, and prophesied that Mr. Cole would prove a worthy successor.

Mr. Cole, after thanking Judge Hoge, said that although he would not be able that Mr. Cole would prove a worthy successor.

Mr. Cole, after thanking Judge Hoge, said that although he would not be able to appear in the prosecution of cases for some days on account of personal affairs, the machinery of the court would not be impeded.

Judge Hagner expressed his regret at the departure of Judge Hoge and welcomed his successor with a few complimentary remarks.

After watching the wheels of justice fly around in a policy case for a short time, the ex-District Attorney and the District Attorney left the court together.

Violators of the Policy Law in the Criminal Court. There were an unusually large number of indictments for violation of the policy laws presented by the grand jury at its last report to the Criminal Court. Every new petit jury has to be initiated into the mysteries of policy writing and policy playing in order to understand the crime for which offenders are indicted.

The first case that the new March jury tried to day was that of Wellington 8.

The first case that the new March jury tried to day was that of Wellington S. Lucado, a colored man, charged with having conducted a policy business during the latter part of August, 1890.

Several witnesses testified to Lucado having written policy, and Detective Block told the jury the manner in which the fascinating game is played and the material which is used by the writer.

The jury found Lucado guilty and he was remanded for sentence.

William B. Mills, an old white man with long, matted hair and a shaggy beard, succeeded Lucado in the prisoner's chair. He was charged with policy writing between August 1 and December 2 last.

2 last.

Mills was found guilty and received an unusually heavy sentence from Judge Hagner. He was given six months in jail and ordered to pay a fine of $250, or stand committed until it was paid.

Crawled Out of Mim.

From the Chicage Herald, 3d.

A dark ureen lizard crawled out of Michael Daly's stomach yesterday. It was three and one-half, inches long. It had been there since carly last September. Daly has followed the lakes for the past fifteen years.

During the night Daly became very thirsty, and as it was eight miles to the nearest saloon he had to quench his thirst with water. He was directed to a spring a few rods from the depot. Daly says that he never drank purer water in all his life. He lay on his stomach and throst his face into the spring. The water was shallow and Daly must have swallowed a lizard, for the next day, when he became sober, he felt queer inside. He continued his tramp to Ashtabula, and there he met his brother, who put him aboard a ship bound for Duluth. When navigation closed Daly took up his winter quarters at a sailors boarding-house on Clark street, between Harrison and Van Buren.

The lizard caused him no serious trouble up to a month ago. Then he became sick, and had frequent fits of vomiting. Several remedies were suggested. One big sailor, who had been on a man-o'-war for years, said that whisky was the only thing known to medical science that would kill a lizard in a man's stomach. Daly drank whisky until he had the tremens, but the reptile refused to give up its residence. Last Friday Daly was taken seriously ill, and a doctor was called in to see him. He had a voracious appetite, and the other lodgers langhed at him whem he complained of beingsick. Daly told the physician what ailed him, and he was ordered to drink sait water for twenty-four hours. He also ate two or three pounds of sait pork. Saturday night Daly was almost crazy with thirst, from the sait water and pork, and a pail of hot water had to be placed near his hed so that the steam would rush into his throat. This had the effect of quenching his desire for water. The decotor had left strict orders that no water be given him.

The doctor had left strict orders that no water be given him.

About 10 o'clock yesterday a pan of milk was warmed until the lactcal fluid fairly shoeled. This was placed on a chair at Daly's bedside. The sick man leaned over the edge of the bed and gazed into the milk. Pretty soon he felt something crawling up the side of his stomach. It another moment the reptile was in his throat, and it fell with a splash into the pan. It was of a dark green color and almost four inches long. One of the lodgers get a pop bottle and put the lizard into it. Daly says that he will go on exhibition in a few days at a dime museum. Of course he will have the lizard with him, for it is the reptile and not Daly that the public will want to see.

METHODIST MINISTERS.

SECOND DAY OF THE SESSION OF THE BALTIMORE CONFERENCE,

What Was Done by the Conference this Morning at Hamline Church-Several Addresses Made and Reports Rendered-Last Evening's Session.

The morning service of the conference opened with religious exercises by Rev. W. J. McKenny, after which the minutes of yesterday were read and approved. The commuttee on the tabulation of the vote of the laity on the question of admitting against a service and a forther resulting against the service of t mitting women was made, and a further conference asked. Rev. J. M. Reily reported the prog-ress of the different churches. The assets of the trustees of education showed $151,-040.74.

of the trustees of education showed $151,640.74.

The several ministers in Washington and vicinity reported their work and assessments.

Rev. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christion Advocate, made a lengthy address, in which he gave a history of the church paper and the ups and downs of the same. He said that such a paper should be supported, and that the people were not doing what they should. The paper was a power if properly patronized.

The speaker objected to several slight inaccuracies which had occured in the report of the conference published in a morning paper, and took occasion to say that the secular press could not give the reports as they should be. The reporters should not be blamed since they, as a general thing, were not conversant with conference matters.

After the reports were all in. Mr. L. S. Coffin made an address in behalf of the railroad men of the country.

He said that night and day they were at work and should receive the support of the people. They should have Sunday rest. Two hundred thousand of them were forced to work on the Sabbath. The desceration of the Sabbath was not right.

Dr. Brush of the South Dakota Methodist University made an appeal for help which was liberally responded to.

At 12:30 the conference adjourned until 3 o'clock.

Last Night's Meeting.

Last Night's Meeting. The antiversary meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society yesterday afternoon was largely attended, and a great deal of interest was manifested.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. F. A. Cook, president of the society.
Rev. S. F. Lang of India was introduced and made a stirring appeal for help. He told of the great work which had been accomplished and the great field for missionary work in Burmah.
The devotional exercises at the evening session of the conference were conducted by Rev. J. J. G. Webster. The president of the Pennington Seminary, Rev. Dr. Hanlou, made a lengthy address, in which he told of the work of the institution.
Dr. Spencer, one of the secretaries of the Church Extension Board, entertained the large audience with an address about missionary work, and spoke of the urgent need for money. The work was one which should not be neglected by the church, as there were thousands who were ready to go to missionary fields to labor for the Lord.

TOPICS OF ALEXANDRIA.

News and Gossip from the City Across the River. ALEXANDRIA, March 5.—The Infirmary report shows an expenditure of $2,141.92 for the year and an unexpended balance of $348.00, and over $1,100 was raised from pay patients. This institution is sup-of $548.00, and over $1,100 was raised from pay patients. This institution is supported by private and church subscriptions and has done a noble work. The city supports an almshouse, of course, and the above figures do not include the donations to the poor through the Ladies' Union Relief or articles of clothing, medicine and food donated for use of the patients. The buildings will shortly be extended, and it is believed that next year's work of this worthy institution will exceed that of the last.

Mr. Edward C. Turner, sr., a well-known citizen of this section of the State, died at his home, near the Plains, Fanquier County, a day or two ago, aged 73 years. The Contest Has Narrowed Down to Few Candidates. The contest over the selection of an additional judge for the Police Court has narrowed down to a very few candidates. Several men who have an extensive law Several men who have an extensive law practice have been spoken to in regard to the appointment, but have positively declined to take the place under any consideration, and so far as the present candidates are concerned Mr. Daniel E. Caltill seems to be in the lead. But for his politics Judge Mills would have the precedence, but his friends were told by the President some days ago that it was useless to urge his selection further. Both Mr. Armes and Mr. Dumont are still in the fight, and their friends are vigorously urging their selection.

The stock market was dull again this morning, although there was a slight increase on the trading during the same hours yesterday. Up to noon 72,400 shares changed hands. Prices opened at 462; per cent, higher than yesterday's closing, but almost immediately after the opening the aunouncement was made that $200,000 gold had been ordered for export. This news resulted in a slight selling of the list, especially of the Grangers, Villards, Louisville and Rock Island. The opening improvement wholly disappeared by 10,30, while in some cases fractional declines from last night's figures were recorded. Toward 11 o'clock sugar became prominent in the dealings, advancing 14 to 70. This steadled the general market, and slight recoveries were noted in some cases. During the hour to noon the market was almost stagmant. Prices changed but little, and at this writing values are about the closing figures of yesterday.
